TWO-MINUTE SERMON

by REV. GEORGE HENRY

WHO'S FOOLISH

I sat in a hotel office. I was trying to write. An old man was at my side discouraging to a more or less attentive audience on the subject of superstition. "Consider the Christian religion," he said, "that is mere superstition. Why do some people believe in the divine origin of Christ? In all the literature of the world there is only one book that pretends to speak with authority and to give us authentic information concerning him. People certainly love to be humbugged. I touched the old man on the elbow and said, 'Excuse me, but trying to write and listen to you at the same time. I am somewhat rattled; what year is this?' With a laugh he answered, 'Why this is the year 1928.' "Nineteen hundred and twenty-eight years since when?" I asked. He hesitated and I fancied he felt a little embarrassed, but he replied, "Since Christ." "If I were you," I said, "I would use some other method of computing time. Why pay this tribute to Christ? Why do some people believe in him? Why do millions who now live believe in him? Why have other millions who are now dead believe in him? You say there is only one book that pretends to give authentic information concerning him. Will you prove to me that it is pretence; that it is not authentic?" And he said, "I really hate to tell you just exactly what he said—but he said, 'Oh, you're a damn fool.' I leave it to you, my friend, to decide who was most foolish."

FARM BUREAU

AN APPLE A DAY

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away" maybe!

Little Johnny said to his mother: "Mother, I've kept thirteen doctors away this morning but I guess I'll have to have one this afternoon!"

Raw and cooked apples are a valuable addition to the diet. They supply vitamins, minerals, fruit sugar, and roughage material. Here are some other ways to use apples, other than as sauer or in pie:

Put apples in salads, combine with cabbage, celery, chestnuts, grapes, or cream cheese.

With a meat course, try sweet potatoes with scalloped apples; baked cabbage and apples; fried carrots and apples; fried apples and bacon; glazed apples, etc.

Some desserts using apples are: apple pie, apple float, scalloped apples, apple betty, baked apple dumplings, apple pie with cheese melted over top, apple sauce cake, upside down cake, and stuffed baked apples.

FARM BUREAU FEDERATION

OFFERS PRIZE FOR ESSAY

The Maine Farm Bureau Federation offers fifty dollars in prizes for the best essays on the subject: "What Our Home Means to Me." The first prize is $15, the second $10, the third $5, and the next ten $2 each.

Entries for these prizes is open to residents of Kennebec, York, Cumberland, Oxford, Androscoggin, Sagadahoc, Knox, Lincoln, Waldo, Hancock and Washington Counties. Only one essay will be accepted from one family and any family having been admitted an essay.

Subject must be: What Our Home Means to Me. It must be a story, not a treatise. It must be a story of the home as it is, not as it should be. It must be a story of the home as it is, not as it should be. It must be a story of the home as it is, not as it should be.

Stanley Barrett of North Woodstock is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coffin.

Mrs. Ida Jordan called on her sister, Mrs. Ernest Smith at West Paris last afternoon last week.

Accredited Flocks

An outstanding feature in Oxford County's poultry game is that every one of our seventeen flocks that were tested last fall for Pullorum Disease tested 100% free and were accredited.

Furthermore we have raised the number of accredited flocks from one in 1928, to five in 1929, eight in 1930, ten in 1931, and 17 in 1932. This year 9,582 hens were tested and accredited in the county.

In 1928 Oxford County sold 1,500 chicks and hatching eggs. In 1931 she sold $7,357 and turned away orders for 11,000 more.

We are making it safe for poultrymen to say "There is no place like home" when it comes to buying chicks.

Egg Records

Work has been started with 36 poultrymen this year to encourage better flock management and sixty-nine poultrymen have adopted one or more of the seven points in the Good Housekeeping Project.

Pedigree Breeding

The committee feels that all three of the projects together with a new one to raise our income with poultry should be on our county program for next year.

A. L. SANDERSON, Poultry Project Leader.

GET FARM ACCOUNT NOW

Free Farm Accounts are available to farmers in Oxford County through County Agent Ridley. The accounts are simple, yet complete, and begin January 1 of each year. Conditions are as follows:

1. Take an inventory when starting the account and again at the close of the year.

2. Keep a record of expenses and receipts for one year.

3. Loan the account to the Extension Service so that they may take off a summary.

4. In return the Extension Service will:

1. Furnish the account book free of charge.

2. Check the account for errors in addition before taking off the summary.

3. Furnish a copy of the county summary with a statement showing a comparison of that farm with the average of all farms in better organizing the business.

4. Return the book as soon as it has been summarized.
